DENMARK

We are a group of left-wing activists, who want to develop the anti-capitalist and not-stateloyal resistance and to contribute to the creation of common perspectives and structures for the resistance in Western Europe in general.

Among other things we work with the subjects:
Anti-imperialist solidarity with the intifadah of Palestine, fight against repression and solidarity with the political prisoners in Western Europe, development of a revolutionary strategy for autonomous resistance against the EEC-project of the multi-nationals, revolutionary feminism against genetic and reproductive engineering and population policy, restructuring and the new definition of class.

AUTONOMI NEWSLETTER is our group's magazine in English, which inform other revolutionary mileus about some of our activities. The perspective of AUTONOMI NEWSLETTER is to contribute to a qualitative better communication network between autonomous and anti-imperialist groups in Western Europe.

★ BOLOGNA: Collectivo compagne Lucida Follia (Female activist commune "the bright madness"), is a female commune which has started because of the necessity of the situation which in the light of a militant practice, to resume the discussions and secifications of the ruling structures, which we as women in a capitalistic and patriarchal society, lives in today.

In the Italian society there does not exist an organised feminist movement. This implies a search to refind and to identify a number of social and cultural factors, which makes it possible for women, in the light of the exsiting antagonism, to give strenght to the class-war and the resitance through a concrete and militant critisism against this system. Our collective arose about one year ago, and it started with the editors from one of the radiostations (underdog) of the resitance.

This staff of editors decided to open a debate about : Sexual abuse and violence against women, living conditions to women in countries, where national revolutions has taken place, "women work", the religion and the cultural influence and the attitude towards women, and finally to stimulate the discussion about how far the practice of feminism in the Nothern European countries could give some new light to our experience, which we could use in our situation.

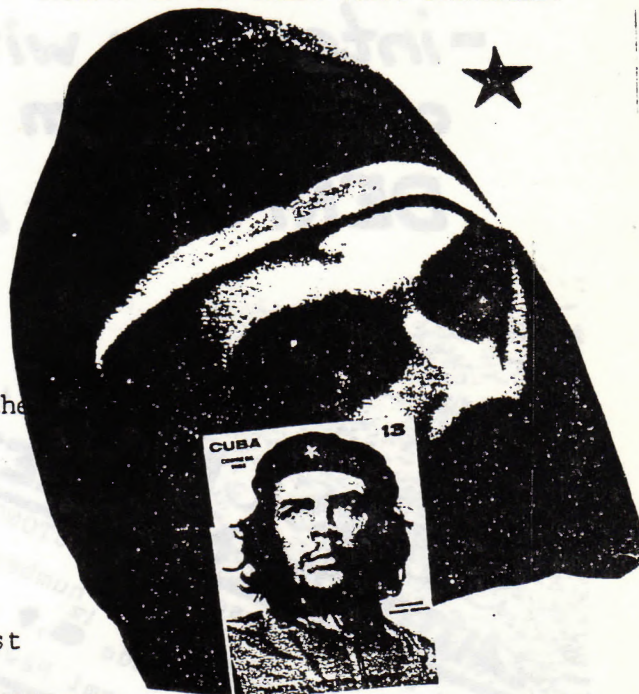

Based on theses experiences a female collective has started, which today does not only work with counter information, but also has developed a militant feminist practice.

We are aware that we still only are in the beginning, but we are convinced that it is a absolute necessity to restore the struggle of feminism.

In these months we are especially working with:

- Self organization against all forms of sexual violence.
- Womens right of self-determination in question concerning pregnancy and motherhood, and the struggle to preserve the right of free abortion.
- Examination of the mecanism of suppresion in the feminist work.

- The use of womens bodies in bio-genetic experiaments, and the use of bio-genetic as an instrument to demografic population control in the third world countries.

★ FLORENCE: Centro di comunicazione antagonista (communication center of the resistance), started in the end of 1983 beginning of 1984 - the aim was a political fight for the autonomi of the class.

In the beginning we was a mixed composition of comrades, which had a very different political background and experience from the resistance activities in Florence, which from the beginning of the '80-ties in fact has been teared to pieces by the machinery of the state repression.

We carry on with strength, the power of historical struggle, which the state still try to criminalize with the purpose to crush the collective identity, which is a main motive power in the development of the political strength. With background in this political experience, Centro di Comunicazione Antagonista, will contribute to reconstruct the fight in new and existing questions as: restructuring of the productive system, heavy pollution the machinery of the state-repression, environmental cases, etc.

On basis of our internal discussions and the initiatives, which on a national level are developed from the fight of the resistance, we are mobilizing here, in Florence for example against rearmament, the Florence institution for "criminal and insane people" -Montelupo fiorentino; and we participate in national campaigns as for example the campaign for closing the nuclear station PEC, which was going to work with elements for "Superphoenix". This campaign has for the last 3 years been our main political activity. This has, among other things, resulted in: Anti-nuclear camps, blockades several times, demonstrations, confrontations, and it all ended up in the closing of PEC. The success of the campaign was in first place due to the solidarity and common footstep.

Our topical political work is characterized by direct action and is turned against as well nuclear stations as well as all other deadly industry in our region. We develop a fight against threats such as: chemical industry, combustion/discharging of poisonous substances, environmental damages. Our perspective is to make this struggle a general struggle against the capitalistic ways of production. To us this, implies among other things also a ideological fight against the wrong consciousness which is expressed in the pseudo-green ideology which is a pretence to save the environment, but never the less to proceed with the blind growth of industry. We also fight against the PCI (partito comunista italiano) and the trade-unions when they together with the employers adopt the attitude that environmental emendation is not to be at an expence of jobs.

At the time we are working to create a collective structure which makes it possible to develop the discussion in our region, and therethrough intensify our struggles against the pollution of the chemical industries and against the use of the modern bio-tecnology.

A new tendency is that many young people get together to resist the social split-up, which has been intensified by a wide spread use of heroin. Instead of finding one self in this situation, alot of young people has started to do something about these things. They have squatted old damaged houses and made them to collective centres and meeting places. This has for example taken place in Florence, Pisa, Livorno, Ponte ad Elsa. Here the collective growth are put into practice in the terms of autonomy in the many cultural and political activities. Here a power is released which before where hidden away in the isolation of the ghetto. A dynamic has developed which has influence on the whole region.

Concerning the activities connected to international solidarity, we are first of all working with the Palestinian Intifadah. We are collecting money for medical equipment for the Palestinians in the occupied territories, and we are making a boycott campaign against articles from Israel (among other things Jaffa-fruit).

★FRANCE:

We are a small loosely organized group, which has worked together for many years. We have started many different initiatives, among other things the recent solidarity campaign with the revolutionary prisoners from Action Direct and from the information magazine "l'international".

The geografical and social frame for our political work, is the central France. This is the poorest region in the country, and traditionally left-wing. Also the revolutionary left-wing is strongly represented in this part of France.

Our connexion started mainly through the work with Spanish political refugees from the Franco-regime.

Later we have been strongly involved in: radical resistance against the nuclear-power-station in Malville, cooperation with the autonome movement in Paris since 76/77, anti-militaristic activities, solidarity campaigns with the revolutionary and social prisoners since '78, and we also participate in a large pirate-radio, and in international actions.

★COPENHAGEN:

The activities of these groups has been anti-repression workshops, anti-nuclear-power-happenings, solidarity and information activities with anti-imperialistic struggles in the third world, but has also been related to the situation in West-Europe.

This was the basis of the creation of the Westgerman-comitee in 1980. Some of the members of the comitee came from the traditional left-wing.

Later, in 1987, Autonomous Revolutionaries arose, and there-after Autonomous Feminists. All these autonomous connexions have their own prioritated activities, but are characterized by their common basis in the struggle for the change of society:

We are making energetic attempts to counter the massive desinformation and misrepresentation of the situation in Western Europe, of the bourgeois media as well as of the traditional leftwing, in questions concerning repression and resistance. This involve wide spread mass-struggle aswell as the militant underground-resistance.

We are trying to develop the political perspectives, which could contain the international experiences from the multitudinous resistance, especially in Western Europe. We try there-through to inspire and encourage people who want to be engaged in a change of society, and we are developing activities against the profit-orientated power-structures here.

In the Westgerman-comitee we have concentrated on communication of surpressed information and forms of resistance in Western Europe - especially in Westgermany. This we have done through many different initiatives, for example: articles, public meetings, seminars, demonstrations, campaigns, mobilization to international resistancecongresses, etc. This connexion was the source of A.R., which is trying to formulate an autonome policy and communicate useable, revolutionary alternatives and activities.

We carry out our activities as openly as it is possible in a time with police-encroachment against activists. We do this in an attempt to win over parts of the relative big passive basis of the leftwing. And to make a common process of development to an acting, socialrevolutionary and anti-imperialist movement, which is not loyal to the state but in direct confrontation to the moral of the state, the consume model, economical and social injustice, institutionalized rascism and oppression of women. In short, a collective of multitudinous resistance against all which the profitsystem represents.

Topical our activities reach from anti-imperialist : activities in solidarity with the Palestinian Intifadah to different activities for the development of a common resistance in Western Europe. Right now our anti-repression activities are turned against the Danish secret intelligence service and its encroachment and criminalizing against left-wing activities. At the moment we also make a wide info and solidarity-campaign with the hungerstriking revolutionary prisoners in Westgermany. Feminist resistance and the struggle against genetic engineering and reproductive technologies is also a prioritated subject to our autonomous connexion. (Some of our material about this subject has been translated by different Southeuropean resistance milieus.

As autonomous we are undoubtedly still a minority on the left-wing. But during the last period of time, we have become known by big parts of the left-wing, on basis of our positions in important questions and common discussionpapers, and not least because of our different activities. We have also got a wide contact with activists and interested comrades from the left-wing. (At the same time we and the squat-movement in Copenhagen fell out, when they, on basis of disagreements about what autonomous policy is, started a boycott against our connexion.)

In the autumn we are planning to start up a book- and infocafé together with other revolutionary connexions, so that we can function as communication-center for all active on the left-wing.

HOW WOULD YOU SHORTLY DESCRIBE THE CURRENT POLITICAL SITUATION IN YOUR COUNTRY?

★ BOLOGNA : During 45 years Italy has been ruled by a chistian-democratic regime, which through the years has made different alliances with other centre or centre-left parties. At the moment there's a coalition between D.C. (Democrazia Christiana), P.S.I. (Partito Socialista Italiano), P.R.I., P.L.I. (Partito Liberale) and P.S.D.I (Partito Social Democratico Italiano) - while the communistparty P.C.I (Partito Comunista Italiano) is in opposition. Like all over Western Europe, the political power of the government and the economical centres of power are playing an active part in the development of the worldwide imperialism, while PCI and the tradeunions related to PCI lead off in a social democratic direction. This imply a cooperation with the interests of the capital and the bourgeoisie. This is a class-cooperation tradition, which allready is deeply rooted in Westgermany and France.

The process of restructuring, which the bourgeoisie started in the beginning of the 70ties, is now about to be in completion. Though this has only been possible because of hard repression and strengthened control with the workingclass and those directions in the proletariat, which from the beginning have been mobilizing a resistance against the process of restructuring. To make this process come

HAS GOT NO STRENGTH TO FIGHT ! «

through the imperialist bourgeoisie has involved parts of the institutionalized left-wing as discussion and negotiation-partners; mainly PCI and the tradeunions. In this way they have chosen active participation in the restructuringprocess, and have with that sold out all the years of labourconflicts and social struggles. And this just to get a piece of the cake, which is called political and economical power.

Of decisive importance was the mass-sackings of workers at the FIAT-factories, and later also in all the other sectors of the industry. These sackings left a workers aristocracy, which politically is totally institutionalized. It also resulted in a proletarianizing of great parts of the population, which has been marginalized and ostracized from the productive sector. This meant among other things a growing unemployment to the intellectuals (the university function as a parkingplace for a time....), and a considerable reduction of the living conditions in all sectors. (Heavy hollowing of the public expenses, growing lack of accomodation at reasonable prices etc.)

At the moment the political and economical rulers are preparing the powercentres and the production to the internal market.

This, among other things, results in that public institutions are being subjugated productive and efficiency demands, as if it was private companies; and to the imperialist bourgeoisie this means that it must adjust to the development of new technologies in the other countries. The concrete result is a comprehensive privatizingprocess of many of the earlier public institutions (transport, health service and the educational system), and this has resulted that a lot of productive state companies have been closed or taken over by private capital (Example: In June '89 "Bagnoli", a big iron industry, owned by the state, in Southitaly was closed down though there was a strong resistance which struggled hard against it - the decision was taken by the EEC).

A lot of small companies and industries, which do not manage to connect with the technical development, are swallowed up by the big industrial concerns. This results in mass-sackings and growing public expenses. The universities will become totally subordinated to the interests of the industry and will be forced to make reseach projects, and not from the principal that research is going to serve social interests and not profit interests.

BUT at the same time a resistance against the process of restructuring is developing. It has been clear on the school and transport area, in the dock-labour struggles in Genova, in the movement against the closing of Bagnoli. The tradeunions are not involved in the struggles (except Bagnoli), and their initiatives are all proposals to the workers which serve the interests of the bourgeoisie.

In the matter of repression is the repressive control at the place of work of a selective character (e.g. the sacking of tradeunion activists on FIAT) ; concerning the social area and in the public, the repression is of a preventive character, and are turned against the revolutionary resistance as well as against the workers, who are striking without the approval of the tradeunions.

A consequence of the italian membership of NATO, is the existence of several NATO-bases on Italian ground, and it has been decided to remove the F-16 planes, which was thrown out of Spain, to Crotona in Calabria(southern Italy). Furthermore there is a ruling energy-policy, which is based on the use of nuclearpower.

A mass-resistance has been developed on these areas during the last years, which also includes reformist power. But it is only the direct actions from the revolutionary movement which have achieved to transform e.g. the problems with the NATO-bases and the nuclearpowerstations to an actual attack on capitalist interests.

★ FLORENCE : In our region, Toscana, it is PCI, which political directs the economical development, in harmony with the interests of the industry. PCI is not only a party which has betrayed the labours interests and cooperate with the legislative power to the benefit of NATO etc. PCI is also spokesman of the new restructuring of the work and production, and they try permanently to cool down the social conflicts and to institutionalize the struggles and protests of the people. The other left-wingparties e.g. DP ( Democrazia Proletaria), are orientating their activities to the elections, or they appear as bureaucratic institutions stuck in old trotskist or m-l ideole-gies. In the enviromental fight the green party refuses to mobilize towards actual activities, and instead they lead the struggle astray by concentrating on tactical and possible alliances on the official and political arena.

This in short terms is the political scene in Toscana, which implies different areas: the large citypole Florence-Prato-Pistoia, where the Florentinian centre functions as a show-window for tourists, and the periphery where all industries are placed, which make the whole area one big dustbin. From here to Pistoia there is a big belt of the factories of the exploiting system; the distance from Florence to Pisa is characterized by the environmental ruining leather and skin industry. Livorno is a big harbour, full of chemical factories and refineries, down the coast of La Spezia there is, beside the tourists and the marble industry, a lot of environmental destroying industries. Pisa is the centre of the research (also the military) - and between Pisa and Livorno lies the military camp, Camp Derby. The picture has changed and is constantly moving, and has until today been characterized by the fact that the initiative is in the hands of the employers, who has achieved to suppress and rein the struggle of the proletariat.

*FRANCE: In France we have today a very offensive capitalist system with a very well functioning suppressing structure, and with wide open connexions to the economical speculants and economical crime.

The most important export industry in France is the weapon-industry.

Culturally, France is very influenced by the American multinational consumer "culture".

In spite of the many antagonistic tendencies in the society, it is unfortunately characterized by a falling political interest of the young generation.

*COPENHAGEN : The last 7 years Denmark has been marked by a conservative government-coalition, which is in a clear connexion to the crisis-solution project of the EEC. It is an economical reconstruction which is becoming clear in the massive cutting down- and impoverishment-policy, which in general strikes the lowest parts of the labour population: the unemployed, people on the dole, people who look for education, families with children, pensionists etc.

The biggest party - the Social Democratic party, which in the 70'ties as a governing party administrated the interests of the capital against its own basis, voluntarily gave its governing power away to the conservative liberal bloc in the beginning of the 80'ties to let them make the adjustment of the social and economical conditions to the EEC, which means the competitive conditioned demands of the multinationals. The Social Democrats makes exclusively a verbal opposition to the actual development in direction of a "2/3 society" (a society where at least 1/3 of the population does not have guaranteed living- and working conditions, but constitute an enormous reserve-army of work capacity). The Social Democrats only appear as an opposition-party of selection-tactical considerations about not to loose the votes from their labour-basis.

The reason for the declining resistance in the population since the middle of the 80'ties, in spite of big charges in its living conditions, is mainly a result of the toothlessness and demobilizing policy of the leftwing.

SF (Socialist Peoples Party) and big parts of the leftwing tradeunions have taken over original Social Democratic positions in e.g. the labour market- and social policy. The so-called revolutionary leftwing in the 70'ties substituted their basis-mobilizations with desk-activities as well in the communal and parliamentary institutions as in their own organisation.

This meant a deep political integration in the structures of the capitalist system.

This way the leftwing partys played more than a petty part in the massconfrontations in the end of the 70'ties and in the beginning of the 80'ties, which directly and with a considerable mass-militants turned against the concrete policy of the system. This was what happened in the fight for childrens conditions in the workingclass-district in the Todesgade-conflict and in the fight about the playground "Byggeren" (and in smaller version on "Sundbyggeren" on Amager), in the dockworker-conflict in 81-82, in the fight against condemnations in the north and west of Copenhagen, in the pedagogue-conflict, and in the confrontations about the squatted house in Ryesgade and in the compromise-struggle in '85. In all these confrontations the traditional leftwing did not try to develop and generalize the struggles to a full society level towards a principal conflict against the profit-system (e.g. through generalstrike, assisted by resistance activities in the whole country). Instead they subdued and reduced the classconfrontations by leading them into the traditional course like the municipal council, government, cooperation-institutions and appeals about "trials of justice" for the imprisoned from the movement. Not to mention the situation when especially DKP (The Communist party) and the reform-wing of VS (Left Socialists), to express it in soft words, took an absolutely hesitating stand to some of the struggles mentioned before...

The result to the revolutionary leftwing, after these confrontation-cycles, was a situation with internal struggles, and instead of general consolidation of revolutionary consciousness and radicalizing among the activists, a turn down and demoralizing was spread in the activities of the leftwing.

The situation in Denmark today is characterized by a current transitional period: the basis-resistance is weakly developed, but some signs show a new rising tendency. The repression against activists has been strengthened during the last 2-3 years. It is becoming observable through the frequently imprisonments, house searches, observations etc.

Though this happens only to activists from as well traditional solidarity-committees as autonomes and the squatting movement. It happens because of the intense struggle of the police and the instrument of "justice" to expand their political competence. This to undermine the already sloping "justice protection" of the individual citizen. This way the police won't have any problems to carry out the EEC-plan about a common criminalizing and elimination of all opposition, which disturbs the rulers carrying through the economical profit-interests of the multinational concerns.

Also in Denmark there is an institutionalized growing racism and sexism. The platform for this is the restrictive emigrant and refugee-policy of the government. The sustained women-oppression of the capital is expressing itself by a growing feminizing of the poverty, a wide spread sexism, violence against women, sextourism and trade with women through catalogues where women from the poorest regions of the world are being sold. And also a higher priority of the genetic and reproductive technological testprogrammes, which is not at all based on the needs and wishes of women.

We think it is up to the future political energy of the leftwing, if there in the next few years are going to develop a wide leftwing-resistance against the frontal attacks of the capital and government against the population. This assumes a basic change in the political attitude and in the attitude to activities on the leftwing. It is a matter of becoming an acting motor for the resistance, and to go beyond the frames of the system, and not a cart pushed by the media and the goodwill of the public prosecutor.

CLASS-AUTONOMY AND MULTIPLICITY IN THE RESISTANCE!

IN YOUR OPINION, WHAT IS CHARACTERISTIC FOR THE SITUATION IN WESTERNEUROPE?

★ BOLOGNA : We're living in a phase that is characterized by a comprehensive concentration-process of productive and financial activities, of riches and economical power. This process is the answer on the economical crises during the 80'ties. For being able to compete with Japan and USA - in a situation marked by crises and loss of the credibility of the American hegemony - has it become necessary for the European capital to find new territories from which it is possible to extract profits that will live up to the new investment-level which is a result of the economical competition between the imperialist poles. Therefore it has become necessary for the European capital to define a 3rd imperialist pole - and this is happening with the completion of the internal market in 1992.

The European capital is trying to create new and more up to date conditions for its reproduction. Such conditions also contains new methods for social control on the labour market, a homogeneous legal system and increased repression.

Today WesternEurope benefits by not considerable leads on the hightechnological area. The EEC is the largest market in the world with more than 330 mil. potential consumers. The competitive of the European industry will rise 10 % with the removal of the last border-customs. The individual states will be less important.

It appears that it is impossible to create global instances that are able to govern and control the built-in instability of the capitalist market, and a tendency that regional areas try to help their own part of the global imperialist system has been developed. In this process of integration the WesternEuropean pole, the EEC, came into existence, and it is competing with the US-American and the Japanese pole.

For the European countries there will be a lot of encroachments as a result of the political/economical harmonizing: attacks on the livingconditions and on the class-struggle movements which obstacle of carrying out "the necessary restructuring". This process of integration in poles results that WesternEurope gets a new sphere of influence which includes the Medeteranian area, and results in a consolidation of the markets in Iran, the Middle-east and Northafri-ca.

And therefore we will see a consolidation of neo-colonism, which is based on export of advanced technology from the European countries and the exploitation of local labour. The new "cooperation projects" between Europe and the 3rd world will not result in actual development of the poor countries, but only in raised profits for the capitalist EEC and the local bourgeoisie of the 3rd world countries.

BUT the creation of the WesternEuropean imperialist pole will also create a new class identity in the struggle against the power-structures and the exploitation which the EEC is based on.

★ FLORENCE : For being able to make an in-depth analysis of the situation in WesternEurope, we think it is necessary to have further information about the situation in the individual states. But it is for sure that the terminal date - deadline- 1992 more than a literally beginnig indicates a period of transition to a state of homogeneous discipline of Western Europe as a whole. At the same time it will show out to be still more difficult for the rulers to introduce a "united, free, democratic Europe" based on the values of capitalism.

The largest problems will arrive in the countries which politically represents Southern Europe - and especially for the proletarians: Portugal, Ireland, Greece, Spain and Southern Italy. The contrasts between these countries will be sharpened because of an increased overproduction of agricultural products, and the sale of these products is the fundament of the economy of these countries.

tionary power, and at the same time makes a technological method to maintain social control with the population.

Added to this a gradual abolishment of the "Welfarestate", which implies that public expenses are reduced, and instead the money is channeled to support to the big industries. This is an attack that, among other things, will remove the economical basis of living for many young people in Northern Europe.

In the big cities in Europe the scheme centre-periphery is repeated: In centre the powerful institutions, which political and economical are governing the development, are established. They are becoming still more domineering in the centre, while the proletarians who used to live there, gradually are forced out in the periphery - to the emigrant-ghettos.

It is very characteristic that we instead speaking about north and south, speak about about centre and periphery. Centre is the seat for the strategists of power, profits and finance-capital and the media monopolies.

The attempt to create a homogenous functioning capitalism in Western Europe is supported by a repression-machine that is increasing a prevalent coordination to forestall revolu-

★ FRANCE : As well France as Western Europe is today subjected to the same economical, cultural and social development tendencies; increased exploitation of the population, warped attitudes to life like the US-American consumer-style, vulgarizing of the culture and increased repression against anybody who is a problem for this development.

- COPENHAGEN : During the last years - since the EEC-union became formal, a factum, in 1986 - an accelerating process of restructuring in the direction of a social reorganisation of Western Europe is going on. This process is carried out by 3 main tendencies :
- a process of concentration and centralizing of the capital production in all society sectors.

- restructuring and redefining of the production system in connexion to their high-technological projects Eureka and Esprit etc.

- a process of harmonizing and coordination in order to get common police, military and administration of justice - and common tax- and social-policy.

This will make the framework for the establishment of an economic and social common basis, which shall guarantee the Western-European multinational capital the necessary conditions and the necessary "purged" market in order to stabilize and expand the competitiveness on international level.

The EEC-project concretely expresses these attempts to a harmonizing of economical-, financial- and currency-policy, which points to the acting of EEC as one Western-European bloc. The 3rd imperialistic bloc beside USA and Japan. This creation of a bloc will happen through a contrasting rapprochement process between the international concentration of capital, the different capital strategies in the production and the local markets in the EEC, and will also be affected by the political composition of the local "national" governments.

The EEC-project aims at a stabilizing of the global imperialist system by putting its financial, political- an military strength in an attempt to solve the crises.

In our opinion this redefining of the capitalist order in Western Europe implies an intensification of the exploitation and at the same time a structural increasing of the unemployment. Add to this a general reduction of the living conditions for the metropole-proletariat because of forced technological rationalizations and social reductions. If there isn't coming a revolutionary change, the result will be a Kafka-like alienation and a spread-out impoverishment among the majority of the population in Western Europe. Not to mention the catastrophic situation in the 3rd world, where already today 40.000 children are dying every day as a result of imperialist exploitation!

The cooperation of the repressive agencies within police, intelligence service, military and on the legislative level against activities of the leftwing opposition is another considerable characteristic of the development of the society in the EEC-countries today.

WHAT DEMANDS DOES THIS SITUATION MAKE TO THE REVOLUTIONARY RESISTANCE IN THE METROPOLES?

BOLOGNA : The metropolises are as well a product of - as a tool for development of capitalism. They are also a result of an increased exploitation and of the resistance against it. They also constitute a social environment characterized by class-struggle and -confrontations, which develop integration as well as division in a tight dialectic relation.

The modern metropolises develops its own areas of a very differentiated character, its an irregular development where some areas remain very low priority compared to other areas. Like this factories with a very little use of technology and high security risk for the workers are situated in the periphery, while the managers of the concerns and the financial capital are concentrated in the centre.

The process of restructuring in the metropolises means that the proletariat is deported to ghettos. There is a big difference between areas with guaranteed conditions and a productive basis, and areas that are characterized by a so-called low-economy, and where most have very low incomes because they - if they are employed - have unskilled work (in bars/restaurants, cleaning etc.) At the same time it is areas with a big housing shortage, especially it is a problem for the emigrant workers who today make up a very big part of the proletariat in the Western European metropolises.

The social clash of interests grow like a timebomb. Therefore there is reason to be aware of the social struggles that are developed in the metropolises (e.g. squattings, the creation of new social meetingpoints/centres), and struggles which develop as resistance against the brutal restructuring-process and as a defence for the living-conditions of the proletariat. The squattings are a part of the struggle about the question who are going to govern in the cities, and who are going to decide the appearance and character of the cities. Like this, there is in the metropolises an increasing resistance against the new value-norms, which are forced down on the heads of people (commercializing, meritocracy and control). But of course we are aware of that a kind of resistance like this is far from being wide-spread among the population.

We think it is the task for the revolutionary movement to expand the highest developed social struggles, and we think it is possible because the class-structure is exactly the one that the rulers new social model is going to destroy or/and exploit.

SQUAT AND MAKE SABOTAGE are today 2 mainp-roles which can be the basis for discussions and struggles that aim to smash the structures of the imperialistic metropolises.

★ FLORENCE : On the international level our discussions and praxis are not directed towards any certain organisations or connected to any "brother-party". We're connecting the anti-imperialist struggles with the class-struggles in our countries in concrete cases. Further more we're of course also trying to collect, as big as possible, financial support to anti-imperialist struggles around the world.

★ FRANCE : We've got to start a political and organizational regrouping process, which can result in a common movement for revolutionaries of different opinions, from anti-imperialists to anarchistic flows. It's got to be a united movement on a pluralistic basis. We need in-depth discussions about the situation today as well as the perspectives we're fighting for.

★ COPENHAGEN : Today, 22 years after Che Guevaras death, we stand towards a factual restart of the international discussion and revolutionary struggles in all conflict-areas in the world. In these areas the revolutionary power is dominating, or at least very influential, like for instance in Palestine, South-africa, Philipines, El Salvador, South-corea etc.

In our opinion, the revolutionary struggle today is containing a tendency to fight together in spite of differences in history, strategies and acting. It is a matter of fighting together against the imperialistic profit-system and to create a basis-orientated revolutionary change of the society. To us it concrete means: a socialist revolution here in Western Europe.

The still more uniformed social, economic and political oppression and unfair living conditions, ecological destruction and alienation, with the same character in the whole of Western Europe - from Sicily to Kiruna - is the foundation for the common anti-capitalist and anti-imperialist orientating of the rise.

The already existing, but still weak revolutionary activities in Western Europe are characterized by a dialectical interaction between different forms of struggles: mass-mobilizations, illegal resistance activities like sabotage, metropole-guerilla, organized and individual civilian disobedience, and united efforts for the conquest of social and political arenas. (arenas as a model for areas with dual power, where the revolution has not come through yet, and where the rulers have lost the possibility to exercise their dictatorship). This anti-capitalist struggle-cyclical also has to be seen in connection to the revolutionary struggles in the 3rd world. Today the struggles in e.g. Palestine and El Salvador are convincing proof of how much our struggles in the metropolises, and the struggles of our comrades in the 3. world is inseparably connected, and depended on each others successes.

WHAT STRATEGIC ACTIVITIES COULD BE/IS THE MOTOR IN A REVOLUTIONARY PROCESS IN YOUR COUNTRY AND ON A WESTERNEUROPEAN LEVEL?

★ BOLOGNA : The anti-imperialist struggle today is of great importance in the consciousness and political identity of the revolutionary movement. It is an anti-imperialist struggle, which is not only solidarity with the struggles in the periphery, but is first of all a concrete critic of the imperialist power-structures in the countries in the centre. In our opinion this is the most important strategic activity for the development of a revolutionary process in Western Europe. In this connection it is of vital importance to develop an attack against the restructuring and privatization process, which today characterize the metropolises. It is also important to keep an eye on - and fight the research, which is going on in the universities in order to perfect the integration process in Western Europe.

★ FRANCE : In France a strategic area of intervention for revolutionaries will be the very wide ecological movement, because some of the sections in this movement are going through a strong radicalizing today.

On an international level it is of vital importance to organize more regular meetings/congresses, in order to be able to discuss and concretize common campaigns for the whole of Western Europe.

A springboard in the development of a revolutionary process in Western Europe is the creation of an international counter-information network, which could manifest it self as an effective stand-up to the media-concerns of the EEC-states.

★ COPENHAGEN : As the situation stands in Denmark, we think the following points have to take high priority:

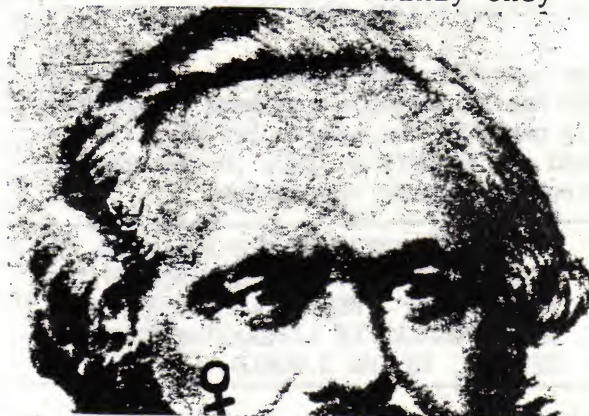

- The struggle against the crisis-policy of the bourgeoisie.
- To build up an anti-imperialist and anti-racist orientated front, and to develop an acting alliance on the leftwing against repression.

The increasing coordinated crisis policy of the EEC bourgeoisie must be answered with a common organization structure. And by common claims from the WHOLE OF THE WESTERN-EUROPEAN PROLETARIAT in order to oppose the political dividing -and impoverishment strategy.

The struggle must contain common economic, social, ecological and unarmement-claims, and be based on a collective structure and local/regional autonomous forms of action and totally unindpended of the institutions of the rulers and the system.

The questions about emigrants and refugees is a direct result of the existing global class-struggle. The international class-struggle appears like this in the selfproduced antagonism of the imperialist system: a new type of proletariat: the banished, rootless mass from the 3. world, which is made mobile.

Exactly when the refugees cross the border between the 3. world and the imperialist metropolises, the leftwing has to go beyond their until now non-committal "internationalism", and change it to CONCRETE and ANTI-IMPERIALIST policy HERE and NOW! Because it is the one and same system, which banish people in the 3. world by taking away their existientiel necessecities, and thereafter putting them into refugee - and asyllian camps, and finally confront them with institutionalized racism, also called "socialpolicy". It is not a matter of people who are banished to the centres of the imperialist system, only because of nationally conditioned terms in their homecountries. Mainly they are banished because of the monocultural underdevelopment-policy of the imperialist countries in relation to the 3. world. The question of emigration and refugees therefore has got to have an anti-imperialist perspective. And a common anti-racist front has to base its activities on this basis. That can for instance result in:

- Campaigns against all restrictions and for free entry -and residence conditions, and for the emigrants and refugees right to live an autonomous life - followed by practical actions as for instance to stop rejection and deportation at the boards and the airport.
- To build up defence structures for emigrants and refugees in districts, factories and schools etc. in order to avoid racist attacks.
- Direct actions against forced prostitution and trade with women from the 3. world.
- Campaigns against low-wage policy (especially in the hotel and restauration lines).
- Active support to the creation of illegal networks for refugees (places to live, fake documents etc.) aswell as support for already existing networks.
- actions against police-controles on meetingpoints for refugees.

A united front against the repression in Western Europe: As mentioned before; the repression against the leftwing has also in Denmark been increased during the last 2-3 years. It is an important basis for anything else, that we united - without demarcations to each other - can defend ourselves against the repression from the rulers. Well knowing that such an Western European antirepression front will be a result of the attacks from the bourgeoisie against leftwing activities, and therefore objectively of defensive character, this is a necessity for the resistance to develop.

The struggle of the revolutionary prisoners in Western Europe for common claims is in connexion to this and an inspiration and orientation.

The revolutionary prisoners struggle in BRD has for example achieved to mobilize big parts of the active leftwing far beyond the borders of BRD, in the common struggle against repression.

DO YOU SEE ANY CONCRETE POLITICAL CONNEXION BETWEEN THE RESISTANCE IN THE IMPERIALIST METROPOLES TODAY, AND THE STRUGGLES OF LIBERATION/HUNGER-REVOLTS, IN THE 3.WORLD.

★ BOLOGNA : Yes. We indeed think that there is direct and concrete connexion between the resistance struggle in the metropolises and the war of liberation in the 3.world - these struggles stand before the same enemy: The policy of the IMF (international monetary foundation) and the world bank.

The exploitation has got many faces and works in different levels, but always with the same aim: Imperialist control.

The struggle of the proletariat in Palestine, Central America, Latin America, Africa and Asia, are in the end the same as the anti-imperialist struggle in the metropolises.

The world wide imperialist dominans creates a common ground to the global struggle: The investment stream from centre to periphery creates the "modern" working class in the large cities in the periphery, while the stream of labour from the periphery to the centres creates a multinational composition of the proletariat in the centres.

It is here in the centres that the rulers cultivate the science and know-how which they use all over the world as their tools. It is here by us that the multinationals has got their commando-centrals. to fight the imperialist centres is because of that a struggle against exploitation of the proletariat here and in the 3.world. Any mobilization got to have the aim to conticapiate the creation of an international proletarian consciousness, where the struggles in different parts of the world makes a line of demarcation -between liberation and counter-revolution -between revolution and imperialism.

★ FRANCE : In spite of numerous differences, the late-capitalist and imperialist dominans means that many areas on the earth has common socio-economical characteristics. When the revolutionary rising of the people for example in Palestine, Kurdistan, Euskadi or Ireland, win their national autonomy, it will basically change the conditions we are struggling under in the metropolises - in favour of the revolutionaries!

★ COPENHAGEN : As mentioned before we think, the struggles are connected and conditioned by each other. Like this the revolutionary mass encounters to the dictatorships which is depending on the imperialism, is a source of inspiration to us who are fighting in the imperialist countries. To the leftwing the revolutions in Algeria, Cuba, Vietnam, Granada, Nicaragua etc. was a big saline injection! Simultaneous revolutions in economically dependant countries in the 3.world cannot decisively develop after their perspectives of socialist visions, Without a revolutionary break through in countries of the imperialist centres where the exploitation originates from.

(though there are some exceptions: it will be exciting when the black proletariat in the highly industrialized South Africa are taking over the power through a socialist revolution.)

WHAT IMPORTANCE DO YOU ASCRIBE TO THE DIALECTIC BETWEEN SOCIAL-REVOLUTIONARY BASIC-STRUGGLE AND GUERRILLA-ACTIVITIES? DOES IT HAVE ANY ACTUAL IMPORTANCE?

★ FLORENCE : The question about the guerilla leads us to a certain discussion about organizations that fights/ has been fighting armed, first of all B.R (Brigatte Rosse = The red brigades) These organizations has started a private war against the state and have therefore seperated from the praxis from the resistance and from the generalized, clandestine struggles of the masses in the 70's. (A struggle there among other things resulted in: shop-lootings, where the people appropriated for it needs, squattings and proletarian militans in violent struggles in the factories and in struggles against the social hieracy). For it is important to make it absolutely clear that the use of militant and violent forms of resistance are not absolutely dimensions, but always have to be judged by the level of the social-political confrontations, the class-consciousness and the unindependend organizing of the proletariat. In this connecction we do not believe in an armed fraction, that is seperated from the political development-process of the masses, legimate themselves as the avantgarde. During the last 10 years there has in Italy been a comprehensive discussion of the historical experiencies of the revolutionary struggles in the 70's , because we as revolutionaries today necessarily have to adopt an attitude to that. It is a discussion which necessarily has to be deepened. and made more specific than it has been untill now.

★ FRANCE : In France there does not exist any connection between social-revolutionary basis-struggles and armed struggle - first of all we think of Action Direct. The prevalent explanation on this situation is, that the comrades, who choosed the armed struggle, developed to fast and they did not develop their legal basis sufficiently and in conformity with the actual situation. This has to be regarded as a sort of defeat.

In France the metropole resistance all in all is not as developed as forinstance in Italy and Westgermany. This is due to among other things that the structures of society in France are still predominant marked by the structures of an agricultural society.

★ COPENHAGEN : At this point in time without going into details: We attach very big importance to the multitudinous resistance (incl. armed struggle) for future radicalizing and clashes with the armed military, bourgeois NATO-democracy.

HOW DO YOU ESTIMATE THE POSSIBILITY FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF A COMMON WESTERN-EUROPEAN AUTONOMOUS, REVOLUTIONARY AND ANTI-IMPERIALIST MOVEMENT?

★ BOLOGNA : There is still many difficulties connected to a coordination of the resistance on Western-European level. Because it is very hard to be informed about the development of the struggles in the individual countries, especially it is hard to create a realistic picture of the political reality in the other countries. Never the less, we think it is extremely important to put all strength into enabling that a united autonomous movement in Western-europe can grow up. It will be a good start to create ourself a common communication and information-network, so we will be able to acquire political understanding of the situation of other comrades, and like that becomes more able to concretize common initiatives. Generally it is our oppinion that the anti-imperialist struggle in confrontation with the system has to develop a common praxis. Especially we are interested in the development of a political praxis that contains a constructive critic of - and resistance against the genetic tecnological engineering and exploitation of womens bodies as articles and guineapigs.

★FLORENCE : The current Italian resistance-movement (movimento antagonista) has been developed after a hard defeat, which has zero'd the further development of the common consciousness and identity that the proletariat has reached through it's struggles against the rulers. Our work today is aimed at helping re-creating the common consciousness. We have not left the praxis, which means to fight for concrete targets. Like that we are involved in the struggles of the reduction of the workinghours, for economically guaranteed livingconditions for everybody, and for closing down of the weapon industries. We think these subjects have to be important for all revolutionary movements in Western-europe.

We have to unite the capacity, which are contained/lying in the criticism of the ruling system, for scientific to be able to understand the productive power of capitalism and their social and political forms of appearance/behaviour. Knowledge is a necessity for being able to fight.

It is very important that we find common actionforms for the resistance. Even though it is normal, it's beneath contempt that every time comrades from different countries are meeting, they are always ending up spending all the time to discuss specific conditions in the individual countries.

This problem could be solved by creating an international information-network that gives the possibility to create a real picture of the european situation, and to be informed about the activities

★FRANCE : The condition for the development of a united Westerneuropan, autonomous and revolutionary movement is: more common discussion-meetings, more common campaigns. We have to work on getting from the level of agitation to the level of organization. (Co-ordinating to the development of a common autonomous policy, we also have to create an un-bureaucratic organizationstructure.)

★COPENHAGEN : In the light of what we have mentioned before: Harmonizing and the common footfell for the capital, it is obvious for us, that their institutions - IMF, Worldbank, EEC, NATO etc. are obvient objects for common/united actions, as for example at the IMF-congress in Berlin, sept 88. Also the increased feminist. resistance against trade with women/sexturism, sexism, violence against women, against genetic engeneering and reproductive technologies and against oppression of women, - all in all it has to be an essential part of a common resistance in the metrópoles

We also se an increasing common coordination in the struggle against the growing racism and neo-fascist activity.

The military industrial imperialist complex, EEC prefer the resistance isolated in national units, while the rulers themself military, economical and in matter of experiences, develop their policy on an international level.

By the time we have got to develop more political and continued initiatives, which can make the basis for a common Westerneuropan, autonomous revolutionary movement.

Let us together create a Multilanguaged information and discussionnewspaper, which can help this proces.

HOW DO YOU ESTIMATE THE VALUE OF THE ANTI-IMF CAMPAIGN, DOMINATED BY GERMAN AUTONOMOUS CIRKLES, AND THE ANTI-IMF DAYS IN BERLIN SEPT '88?

★BOLOGNA : The campaign against IMF has without doubt been a very important axis, not only to the movement in Westgermany, but also to the resistance in the other countries in Westerneurope. The campaign has shown, that it is possible to develop a common Westerneuropan praxis on the same theme. (here the struggle against IMF, Worldbank). But the campaign has also had its limitations, because in Berlin there where no actual discussion between the comrades from different countries. Like this it was a wast of an important opportunity to discuss and concretizice the political continuity that the IMF-campaign was set for. From a political point of view it unfortunately looks like that the Westgerman comrades in the planning of the resistance days was to fixed on the 3.world, and so did not attach the the imperialism as a global phenomenon

★FLORENCE : We cannot make out if the IMF-campaign will be a decisive platform for the development of a common resistance in Westerneurope or not. But the resistance-week in Berlin, sept 88, has, at least for us in Florence, and in Italy generally, been an importantant event, which has pepped up the discussions and the circulation of information about the situation in Westerneurope. We have especially discussed two quistions: One is more specific, and is about how our Westgerman comrades have developed and how they are organized, because we aim to understand the political and social situation that our comrades in Westgermany are working in. We have discussed this in order to be able to understand the differences and similarities, and to be able to make a political valuation. For example: the question about Kreuzberg (an area in Berlin) is important, because the resistance in Kreuzberg has shown the will and the capability to break the standard-state of the rulers, and to develop a political confrontation to the system. Confrontations that are not any more limited to Kreuzberg, but has come through a lot of other places. The other question we have been discussing, is the possibility of creating a common anti-imperialist campaign in Western Europe. We cannot estimate if this would be a factual possibility. It is of vital importance to carry through the discussions all over, of how we together develop the next step forward. But it is for sure that to make it possible for us to develop common actions together with others, we have to know and understand the other milieus, like we now know Berlin, for example.

IMF forms without any doubt one of the most important blocs of the international policy of the rulers. Like NATO forms the military organization of the imperialism. Even though NATO and the US-army are present all over Europe, they have not frictionless been allowed to enlarge their power-positions all over. Like the F 16 planes were forced out of Spain, and at the moment there is in Italy a fight about their presence there. In other words, there is enough reason to be optimistic about the possibilities for a united organized and fighting autonomous movement. Just in these days we are going to Rome to discuss a common mobilizing of the resistance on the occasion of NATO's 40. year anniversary - also this is a clear approach for common actions in Western Europe.

★ FRANCE : The IMF-campaign in West Berlin and West Germany was a good beginning. We have to carry these experiences further to create a real Western European autonomous resistance-movement.

★ COPENHAGEN : We think the IMF-campaign was a good start, but with a number of defects: The IMF-campaign was unfortunately almost reduced to exclusively West German mobilizing. Other revolutionary groups and connections in Western Europe outside West Germany was only very slightly involved in the preparations. During the actual resistance-days in Berlin, Sept 88, the present internationalists from the rest of Europe was only slightly integrated, social as well as politically, in the resistance-campaign. They were left alone, and unfortunately there was not any big discussion forum for them. Autonomie Revolutionaries from Denmark had to take the initiative to gather the many international connections, so that they could exchange info's and political experiences about each other. This resulted in 2 meetings with about 80 participants from 8 Western European countries and from USA, and also in an international autonomous block in the international ending-demo. In this block participated about 300 (inclusive some refugees living in Berlin). In spite of these obvious defects, to us the IMF-campaign is an important step in the right direction, because it manifested practical and political direction of action for the resistance potential of Western Europe.

DENMARK 1989: POST - AND BANKROBBERIES, AND REPRESSION DANISH POLICE, & MOSSAD **...

13th of april, the police arrests seven persons in connection with "Café Liberation" and accuses them of gross bankrobberies and kidnapping of a bank-manager. According to the police, a part of the million loot from the robberies, which have been committed over the eighties, should have been donated to the Palestinian organisation PFLP. With that the police claims that there is a pretty good background for accusing the arrestants of violating section 114 in the Danish penal code, the so-called terror-section. The judge declines this at the preliminary examination as he puts five of the arrestant under custody. Two gets released, but the police maintains the charges against them. One of them, a Danish citizen of Palestinian origin, disappears quickly out of the country. The police demands closed doors in the court - right from the beginning - in consideration of the research. But at the Police Intelligence Service headquarters the doors are pretty much ajar. The following days the press is flooded by anonymous police-sources, who informs that the suspects have been on a training course in the Middle east and that they are connected to the Danish Socialist Liberation Army, which the police suspected to be behind a serie of fires in Århus in the beginning of the eighties.

Some of the suspects are being alleged of carrying the same set of keys and there are ponder over that the keys should be used in a terrorists nest.

In the following days the solidarity organisations try to counteract the smear campaign carried out by the police, where PFLP is exposed to the public as a terror organisation. The police threats about using section 114 is lively debated in the press. The solidarity organisations declares that the police is trying to criminalize the support activities for the third world. But in the end of april the case is settling down, untill a car crash suddenly adds new perspectives.

AN APARTMENT BRISTLING WITH WEAPONS.

The second of may, Denmark gets a chock. The case have uptill now been a nearly banal crime novel, seasoned with political overtones by the polices gossip to sensationstarving newspapers. But then Carsten Nielsen has a crash in Birkerød. He is known by many in the solidarity environment both in Århus and Copenhagen. In the car the police finds a large amount of money, which they connect with the postrobbery in "Købmagergade" last year, one set of keys and the adress: "Blekingegade 2".

As the police examines the apartment they find the largest illegal weapon stock ever found in Denmark and even more compromising material against the five allready in custody plus an additional four persons. These four gets arrested. One of them is a woman, who was among the two who got released after the first arrest. She is now being arrested again and put in custody. Carsten Nielsen is in the hospital with serious damages after the car-crash, among other things his eyesight is ruined. He is put in custody in absentia.

After that the press goes berserk. The environmental surroundings of the suspects is being trenched, and the organisation "Communist Working Group" (CVG) turns up as a "secretly suspect group" which is behind the robberies; killing a police-officer, kidnapping and connections to the Middle east.

Communist Working group (CVG) is a offshot of a maoist sixties group "Communist Worker Sphere". This organisation was dissolved in 1978 and CVG was formed.

The political characteristics of the group is the so-called "parasite state theory": it indicates that the workers in the imperialistic countries are bribed by the capital - through higher living standards, consumer goods. Therefore it is impossible to assume that the working class will fight against the imperialistic rulers and their exploitation of the third world, because the western standards of living is based on this (sur-plus-profit) exploitation of the dependent countries in the third world. The most important element in the anti-imperialistic struggle therefore has to be a direct materialistic support to the liberation movements in the third world.

CWS/CWG was in this way supporting the guerilla of the Zanu party in Zimbabwe, PFL0 in Oman and SWAPO in Namibia plus the Palestinian struggle. Mostly with money.

As CWS and later CWG from the standpoint "the corruptness of the working class through participation in the surplus-profits" believe that the liberated areas in the third world will encircle the imperialistic centres, the groups were not active in Denmark (their few political activities in relation to Western events sometimes seemed grotesque: in this they supported the enrollment of Denmark in the EEC in the beginning of the seventies).

Despite the fact that CWS and later CWG during the whole period of time issued a number of books, magazines and booklets - also shortly before the jailing of their leading activists - the group remained without any contact with the leftwing.

The police has in the late spring released 2 comrades, and imprisoned 3 other during the summer. Today there is a total of 11 comrades in jail from the CWG-group, charged of robbery, police-murder, illegal possession of arms plus association with "terrorist foreign" organisations.

The first arrests indicates that the Israeli foreign intelligence service, MOSSAD is heavily involved in this affair.

Why was a charged Palestinian permitted to travel out of the country?

A highly placed PLO-source told the Danish television newscast, that the Palestinian is a former member of the PFLP, but now is thrown out and could be a MOS-SAD agent.

PET, MOSSAD AND THE "LIBERATION/CWG-AFFAIR"

PIS and DIS (police intelligence service and defence ditto)

Oliver and Hardy

Two reactionary, fumblefingered specimens. Always with their noses sticking out too far, and always getting into trouble in their crave to present the astonished public to new complicated ramifications in the colossal conspiracy formed by the urban leftwing.

If this could be reduced to the grotesque "exposure activism" of the PIS-partners, we could easily be content with different special issues of the same kind.

Unfortunately the background for the actual conduct of PIS against parts of the leftwing today is of a more serious nature. It aims at an attack against - and criminalisation of - non-institutionalized activities. We have to struggle united to prevent the intentional disruptions inside the leftwing, and to prevent that the activists of the leftwing are isolated from those parts of the population, that untill now in different ways sympathise with/identify with the affected leftwing activities.

THE INCREASING POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE OF THE POLICEMACHINERY (including PIS)

---

The multiannual and latent infringement of the police and PIS against leftwing activities is according to us mainly because of two reasons:

1. To criminalize any political activity, which is not orientated to the parliament, in other words any tendency to revolutionary activities.

2. To extend the political rights of the police as a joint in a goal-directed development towards a common Western-European police-machinery with homogenous and coordinated procedure.

To the rulers it is a matter of developing a common revoltfighting-praxis against rebellions, revolutions and other disturbance of that law and order, that guarantee the smooth functioning profitsystem of the multinationals.

The increased repression against leftwing activities and labour activities shall be observed in this coherence.

The criminalisation campaign of the police, PIS, the justice-machinery and the media against the jailed/suspected comrades from Café Liberation/CWG, who by the way was convicted long ago without petty-minded concern about the administration of justice, is just one of the examples of the infringement against leftwing-activists there is going on at the moment. They have among others been turned against: striking dockworkers, anti-apartheid activists, squatters, Christians, the Westgermany committee and different autonomous connections, Palestinian activists, their friends and the PLO office in Denmark.

Independent of circulating political disagreements about each others political strategies and praxis, a active common solidarity against the infringements of the state is a necessary condition for all other kinds of common activities.

The necessary mobilisation of solidarity against the infringements of the state shall not be reduced to cosmetic corrections just to contribute to a stabilisation of the imperialist "democracy" the way that reformist parties do. The purpose must be to strengthen the consciousness about the built-in repression-machinery of the profitsystem. Only that way do we reverse the battle against repression (a defensive battle) to a mobilizing and progressive activity.

PIS AND THE "LIBERATIONAFFAIR"

There are incredibly many unscrupulous and consciously distorted sensational stories written which have stamped the attitude of the population as well as the leftwing concerning the case about the jailed comrades from Café Liberation/CWG. This has among other things lead to a "familisation" among some parts of the leftwing in their common eagerness to ban terrorism, whatever this diffuse and hackneyed concept means.

To us this case is primarily a sober illustration of the actual possibilities which the police and press of the system disposes of to criminalize anybody, anywhere and anytime.

The comrades from Café L./CWG have been accused of many things without having any actual possibility to answer back. Their attorneys are more or less sentenced to silence, and are action-paralysed.

The comrades have now been isolated during almost 6 months and have been exposed to permanent pressure and malice. Carsten Nielsen, who has gone blind after the carcrash, is denied the almost elementary needs of physical and psucological survival as: daily visite, continous hospital stay, the right to refuse examination and untill August he was refused the right to recieve tapes.

The aquirement of the so-called evidence in the case has taken place in a highly peculiar way and is showing striking resemblance to mafia and gangster methods. We think that this should be the theme for an investigation comitee established by different solidarity committees.

A political, strategical valuation of th activities of the CWG/Café L. is for the time not relevant to us, as we do not know what is actual and what is not. Should it however be true, that a bank or two has been lifted for some money, which have gone to the anti-imperialistic liberation struggle, we won't be rather sad about it!

The higher goal for PIS and MOSSAD is to developpe a massive smear-campaign against the rightfull struggle of the Palestinians for their identity and for an indendent and free Palestine. The miscredit of the PLO-office in Copenhagen, the Palestinians and their friends on the leftwing is a joint in an offensive by extreme rightwing forces in Denmark - triggered by the activities of PIS and MOSSAD - to straighten up the breaking image of Israel to the Scandinavian public. This is the other pillar of the present smear- and criminalisationcampaigns.

WE DEMAND:

- RELEASE OF ALL SUSPECTS IN THE CASE AGAINST CWG/CAFE L.
- THE MAKING OF AN INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE CONCERNING THE ROLE OF PIS/MOSSAD IN THE CWG/CAFE L CASE!
- STOPPING OF THE SMEAR-CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE PLO-OFFICE IN COPENHAGEN.
